Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 1-3 are objected to because of the following informalities: It is not clear the meaning of "if heat energy of said air heater is less than a prescribed capacity and is sufficient to heat the air that blows out to the passenger compartment". Also, this sentence has no weight in the claim since this is an apparatus claim. Appropriate correction is required.
2. The following rejections are based on the best understanding of the claimed limitations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Karl (U.S. Patent Number 6,178,761).

Karl discloses a carbon dioxide air conditioner for a vehicle. Referring to Fig.4, the system comprises a compressor 4, a condenser 8, an evaporator 11, a radiator 20, a bypass branch 40 and a heater 20. When the engine is cold or the coolant never reaches a high enough temperature, the refrigerant is circulated through the radiator 20.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Karl (U.S. Patent Number 6,178,761) in view of JP-U-61-161011.

Karl discloses the invention substantially as claimed. However, Karl does not disclose the operation mode of the refrigeration circuit is based on the temperature criteria. JP-U-61-161011 discloses the operation mode of the refrigeration circuit is based on the temperature criteria in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of heating control. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Karl with a temperature sensor in view of JP-U-61-161011 so as to control the heating mode.

7. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Karl (U.S. Patent Number 6,178,761) in view of Zenbou et al. (JP 08268035).

Karl discloses the invention substantially as claimed. However, Karl does not disclose the airflow control means. Zenbou et al. disclose the airflow control means 26 in the same field of endeavor for the purpose of control airflow. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the apparatus of Karl with a airflow control means in view of Zenbou et al. so as to control the air passing through the heating elements.
